TASC Programs in Western and North Central Illinois

TASC advocates for people in courts, jails, prisons, and child welfare systems who need treatment for alcohol/drug and mental health problems.

ADULT COURT & PROBATION SERVICES

TASC works with men and women whose alcohol and drug problems have contributed to their involvement in nonviolent criminal behavior. Judges, attorneys, and probation officers refer potential clients to TASC. As a liaison between the courts and community-based treatment, TASC services slow the cycle of addiction, crime, and incarceration and reduce the pressure that large numbers of offenders place on public systems.

Adult Criminal Justice Services (ACJS): Supervised Treatment via Designated Program

In Illinois, the legislature has provided for access to treatment as an alternative to prison for nonviolent offenders with substance abuse or dependence disorders. If clients meet eligibility criteria under the statute, TASC conducts an in-depth assessment of their criminal justice history, the nature and extent of addiction, readiness for treatment, and likelihood of treatment success.

Individuals who meet legal and clinical criteria, may receive probation with TASC supervision. TASC case managers develop individualized service plans that include linkages to community-based substance abuse treatment, medical/mental health services, vocational/educational programs, and other needed social services.

TASC monitors client progress, reevaluates client needs, and provides reports to the court. Client compliance is monitored through ongoing case management and toxicology screening using TASC's certified clinical laboratories.

Rock Island and Mason County Drug Courts

TASC works with drug courts across Illinois to help reduce recidivism among offenders and to reduce court backlogs and jail crowding. TASC offers assessment and advocacy services to clients involved in the Rock Island and Mason County Drug Courts, and serves as a clinical resource on addiction for criminal justice professionals.

CORRECTIONS & COMMUNITY REENTRY SERVICES

TASC works with drug-involved men and women in the Illinois prison system to help provide the treatment and other services needed to reduce recidivism, maintain public safety, and restore productive citizenship.

IDOC Clinical Reentry Case Management for Men, Women, and Youth

Under the leadership of the Illinois Department of Corrections (IDOC), TASC provides reentry case management services across Illinois that help parolees successfully transition to their communities. TASC provides comprehensive assessments and linkages to community-based substance abuse treatment, mental health services, housing support, education, job training, emergency shelter, emergency food, primary healthcare, and transportation. These clinical case management services are designed to reduce recidivism, support recovery, and facilitate client movement toward self-sufficiency.

Sheridan Correctional Center

TASC provides pre- and post-release clinical reentry management services for the Sheridan Correctional Center to ensure the successful transition of clients from the institution back to communities around the state. Located in North Central Illinois, Sheridan is a dedicated drug treatment prison that incorporates a full range of community reentry services. The Sheridan program is a nationally recognized systems model driven by research-based practices.

TASC receives funding from a variety of federal, state, and county sources, as well as several private foundations, organizations, and individuals.
